JUNIORS SIGN DORSEY FOR PROM

16 Pieces, Two Vocalists To Appear Here May 19

A contract securing Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra to play for the Spring prom was signed last Friday by Charles Jaksha, chairman of the band committee for the prom, and Dr. Chester W. Wood, OSPS. The contract provided for a 16-piece orchestra plus two vocalists to play for the May 19 affair which will be held in the Armory.

According to the committee, Duluth is the only place in Minnesota to entertain Dorsey on his tour. Vocalists Kenny Martin and Pat O'Connor, as well as featured artists Charlie Teagarden and Ray Baduc will be among the members of the outfit. The selection of Jimmy Dorsey was approved by the finance and social committees of the Student council last week.

Tickets will go on sale Monday in the hall of Main. The first week of ticket sales will be reserved for juniors and seniors, according to the committee. After that tickets may be purchased by underclassmen also.

According to Don Cook, junior class president, ticket sales will be limited to prevent overcrowding at the dance. "Any tickets left after student sales will be available to alumni on a first come, first served, basis."

"It is mainly through the effort of Charles Jaksha that we are getting a 'name' band for the prom," said Cook.

Goldstein Lists Film Showings

Dr. Harold L. Goldstein, director of audio-visual aids, has announced the following schedule of film showing to be held Thursdays at 12 noon:

April 27—"Waverly Steps" and "Famous Fish I Have Met."

May 4—"House In the Desert" and "Let's All Sing Together."

May 11—"Overdependency" and "Parabola."

May 18—"Who's Delinquent?" and "Voices of the Deep."

May 25—"49th State," "Lucia di Lommermoor" and "Tall Tales."

The Smell's The Thing!

UMD coeds received sympathy from an unexpected quarter this week, in the form of a letter from a Finley, Ohio, woman.

The lady says that there are artificial corsages one can buy to dress up that formal.

What's more, she offered suggestions on where to get them and how to wear them. Student council president Lee Williams has the letter, if anyone is interested.

Student council members found the artificial corsages sent with the letter very realistic. In fact, after a general inspection, they pronounced them perfect in everything—but scent.

Council Rejects Referendum On Corsage Question

The corsage ban issue erupted again at the Student council meeting Tuesday. A motion was made which read: "... that we have an all-school referendum on the corsage ban question, to be taken at the same time the Student council president is elected, to take effect next fall, the ballots of which will not be counted until after the spring prom." The motion was defeated by the count of 12 to 7.

A motion, which read: "... that a committee be set up to investigate the conditions of the various paths worn on several areas of the campus and from their findings make a recommendation to the administrative committee so that some definite action can be taken," was passed by the majority. A committee of Sally Loucks, Dolores Campbell and Andrew Larson was appointed.

Jones States Theater Must Bend Toward Modern Concepts

If the modern American theater is to survive, it must come to terms with the modern man of today," stated Robert Edmund Jones. The Broadway scenic designer spoke at last Tuesday's convocation on the "Future of the American Theater."

It was his contention that the modern American theater today is sick and that it is suffering from a time lag. The American theater has forgotten the audience, he believed, and the way in which it expresses fundamental emotions is of our day.

Pianist to Give Recital Tuesday

William Masselos, distinguished young American pianist, will give a piano recital, Tuesday, April 25, at 8 p. m., in the university auditorium. The recital is sponsored by the University Concert series.

A graduate of Juillard School of Music, Masselos has several acclaimed Town hall and Carnegie hall piano recitals to his credit. In 1947 he received the Young Artists award of the National Federation of Music clubs.

"Great emotions are," he said, "the life blood of the theater. They give it its excitement."

In explaining the meaning of the theater and its purpose, Jones said, "If music is the art of the sound of life and painting is the art of the appearance of life, the art of the theater is the art of living life. It makes us aware of the raw stubborn quick of living."

He believed that the new theater that will probably arise will be like the singer who sings a duet with himself by singing to a recording and an image on the screen. "It will be the living relationship between the outer man and his inner dream." (See Picture, page 3)

Sigma Phi Kappa Sets 'Varsity Drag' Tomorrow

Terry Evanson and his seven-piece orchestra will play at the Varsity Drag, sponsored by Sigma Phi Kappa sorority, Friday, April 21, at 9 p. m. in Hotel Duluth.

A floor show followed by a Charleston contest will highlight the evening's events. A cup will be awarded to the couple winning the Charleston contest.

Music Dept. Slates Recital

The music department will present a senior recital Sunday, April 23 at 4 p. m. in Tweed.

Florence Kochevar, clarinetist, will play 'Petite Piece,' by Debussy and 'Sonata,' by Hindemith. She will be accompanied by Elaine Mattila.

Assisting Miss Kochevar will be May Maki Buehre, violinist, who will present Bach's 'Sonata No. VI' and Edgar Eklof, baritone, who will sing 'O del mio dolce odor,' by Gluck and 'Danza, Danza,' by Durante, 'Sweet lil Jesus boy,' by MacGinsey, 'Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal,' by Quilter and 'Sailor's Life,' by Wilson.

Nominations for president of the Student council, sophomore, junior and senior classes for next year are still open. Nominations may be made in the Office of student personnel services.

Helen Vaux is chairman of the dance committee. Other committee chairmen are Gwyn Allen, publicity; Lola Mae Jaap, handbills; Virginia Holes, posters; Jane Ott, decorations; Barbara Rotvig, entertainment, and Barbara Sanders, tickets.

Dr. Saltus to Be Convo Guest; Shakespeare Will Be Topic

A new insight into Shakespeare will be presented by Dr. Charles Saltus, head of UMD's Division of languages and literature, at the convocation Tuesday, April 25, at 11 a. m.

Since the loss of cultural values in present colleges and universities is generally recognized by educators, Dr. Saltus will show how Shakespeare embodies these values in English literature.

UMD Choruses to Sing At Range Cities Today

The mixed chorus and women's glee club of UMD will present concerts in the schools at Eveleth, Virginia and Buhl, Minnesota, today, April 20.

The a cappella choruses will be assisted by soloists, Allen Downs and Betty Flockhart, and by a mixed quartet composed of Marlene Khim, Marlys Gobell, Marvin Rowe and Edgar Eklof.

Locals Need More Pep

Let's Activate Our Clubs...

School spirit goes farther than just hollering at football and basketball games. School spirit is a part of every school day of the year.

School spirit stems directly from the various campus clubs. Where you have many active organizations each contributing something to university life, there you also will find school spirit.

What does the term "active" imply?

"Active" implies, first of all, that the club hold well planned regular meetings, designed to interest its members. Adequate notices for each meeting should be posted. It means taking a vigorous part in school projects when ever possible. "Active" clubs should have one and possibly more "big" projects which are designed to contribute to university life.

Why are some clubs active, others passive?

A club is only as good as the members which comprise it. If the members are active, the club will be active. It's as simple as that.

Our attention then turns to the members.

Why are some members active, others passive?

The student who lives on or near campus is likely to be a more active club member than the student living off campus simply because he is closer to the place of meeting. Proportionately, it is the students from out of town who attend more of the club meetings and school-sponsored activities. One proof of this is the fact that the Rangers' club, composed of students from the Range, always has well attended meetings.

It follows that those colleges having the largest number of out-of-town students will have better attended club meetings and better attended school-sponsored activities.

Approximately 35 per cent of UMD's 1696 students are from out of town. Bolstering school spirit then falls to the problem of waking up many of the home town students.

Too often, students living and going to school in their home town have the tendency to retire to their respective homes after classes, completely divorced from the institution. When it comes to extra-curricular activities this group is generally content to confine themselves to their former high school cliques, ignoring the fact that one of the most important parts of college life is swiftly slipping from their grasps.

The moral here, then, is not to go out of town to get your higher education, but rather to recognize the fact that convocations, concerts, lectures, film showings, plays, dances and all the other various activities going on around here are a basic part of your education. The sooner you do the better—for both you and the institution.

No Longer 'Sitting Pretty,' But—

Mr. Beveldeer Teaches College

By Herbert Taylor

A great deal of student interest has been aroused by the announcement of Dr. Lon Beveldeer's engagement to instruct a graduate seminar in advanced education during the coming summer session. This interest is not surprising in view of Dr. Beveldeer's reputation as one of America's greatest educators.

V a r i o u s l y known as "the walking encyclopedia" and the "one-man university," Dr. Beveldeer gained nation-wide attention five years ago when he became the world's only Rotating Professor at UCLA (Un-accredited College of Lower Arkansas).

As Rotating Professor, Dr. Beveldeer stood in readiness to fill in for any instructor in any one of UCLA's 375 course offerings. This proved a fairly simple task for a man with Beveldeer's tremendous background and photographic memory. He is a man of unquestioned genius and unlimited capacity.

Last January, to the amazement of the educational world, Beveldeer was discharged by UCLA without a word of explanation. Anxious to solve the enigma, we interviewed the professor during a recent visit to this campus. When we asked for the story behind his expulsion, he replied as follows:

"For the life of me, I can't comprehend the motivation behind my summary dismissal, but I'll be only too happy to relate the events which immediately preceded it.

"I remember the circumstances very well. Two of the faculty, both good friends of mine, had gone on a fishing trip and had asked me to fill in for them. One was an instructor in the Ag college and the other a sociology professor.

"Although I possess consummate genius and have a photographic mind, my memory fails me when it comes to practical details. For this reason I employed a secretary to make appointments for me, select the appropriate lecture notes from my extensive files, and drive me to the various lecture halls.

"On this occasion she fulfilled her duties with her usual promptness, but unfortunately she must have gotten my lecture notes confused because a most amazing series of circumstances followed.

"In both the aforementioned classes, I had no sooner commenced lecturing when pandemonium broke loose. Most of the students roared with laughter, others fidgeted with embarrassment, and a few stamped out of the room in a huff.

"Within an hour the whole campus was talking about my performance, and the next day I received a curt letter from the administration informing me of my dismissal. They refused to even talk about the matter, and offered no explanation whatsoever."

With these words the good Doctor turned to walk away. I caught him by the arm and asked, "But Dr. Beveldeer, what in heaven's name were the subjects taught in those two classrooms?"

Beveldeer paused reflectively, and fingered his moustache. "Now let me see. I can't seem to remember. Ah! I have it. Yes! The two courses I taught that day were Advanced Marriage Problems and Introduction to Animal Husbandry."

Flying Saucers May Be Our Dishes in Aviation's Future

"It is highly improbable, but not impossible, that the famous flying saucers are from another planet." This was the opinion of Dr. Clarence B. Lindquist, chairman of the UMD engineering department, when queried about one explanation of the controversial flying saucers.

As early as 1942, the United States government was experimenting with a saucer-like flying machine. Over 100 successful flights were made with them before the project was taken over by our Navy department.

"It may be significant," Dr. Lindquist stated, "that while the Army has repeatedly denied knowledge of experiments with flying saucers, the Navy has remained silent. Unofficially, I'm inclined to believe that the U. S. Navy is experimenting with these aircraft."

Some people may doubt that our armed forces could conduct such experiments without public knowledge. Dr. Lindquist quells this idea by citing the effective secrecy which shrouded the atomic bomb project.

As far as interplanetary travel is concerned the professor of mathematics and astronomy believes distances are too great for feasible movement. He adds, a bit speculatively, "There may be life on another planet. Venus possesses greater possibilities to sustain intelligent life than does Mars."

Dr. Lindquist, who is a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve, sums up the situation by observing, "The future of aviation could be very interesting if and when the flying saucer information is made public.

"DAMN!" . . .

While the STATESMAN religiously changes its copy so every "damn" reads "darn" and every "hell" says "heck", the Minnesota Daily blithely prints slogans such as this: "Here's to whiskey so amber and clear; not so sweet as a woman's lips, but a damned sight more sincere."

The above is a toast which won second prize in the Toastmasters' humorous toast contest on the Minneapolis campus.

"Dignity is the last resort of the unaaccomplished," won the first prize.

The fifth place entry was in verse:

"Here's to the bee, a busy soul,

He don't believe in birth control.

That is why in times like these

You meet so many sons of bees."

WHEAT "HORNS" IN . . .

Dr. Leonard B. Wheat, who was the recipient of a sly dig in one of the STATESMAN'S humor columns a few weeks ago, showed a fine balance in his own humor column this week when he sent the feature editor of the paper a paper hat, complete with horns.

The "horns" on the hat were in honor of the devil in the article who admitted the only thing he couldn't do for a student was to get an "A" for him from Dr. Wheat.

Accompanying the hat was a set of drop-add slips filled out so all the courses listed previously were dropped in favor of three of Dr. Wheat's education classes.

CREAM 'N' SUGAR . . .

Members of Mu Sigma Psi, women's medical sorority, have embarked on a worthwhile money-making idea. They are selling coffee, cake and cookies between classes at the Science building. Ever taste coffee made over a Bunsen burner? Not bad.

LOCKER-ROOM CHATTER

by DAVE DYE

The big project confronting the UMD athletic department is the construction of a new athletic building on the Nortondale campus. As of this date, plans are not yet in the blueprint stage. However, athletic director Lewis Rickert has drawn up a set of preliminary plans which he hopes to have incorporated into the new building.

It is hoped to have the athletic plant ready for occupancy in the fall of 1951. If this is to come about, work must begin very soon, and blueprints should be drawn immediately.

Dr. Rickert has released his plans for the plant he desires. We shall describe the building facilities as he envisions them.

The largest part of the proposed plant will enclose two gymnasiums. The men's gym calls for a floor space 120 feet by 100 feet. Adjacent to this, and across the end of it, is planned the women's gym, a 102 feet by 60 feet space.

6000 Capacity Seen

Three sides of the main gym will be equipped with collapsible telescopic seats. These seats, along with a three sided balcony, will provide seating space for 5500 spectators. Augmenting this capacity will be about 800 knock-down seats which can be placed on the floor of the women's gym, raising the total capacity above the 6000 mark.

Two auxiliary gyms, about 60 feet by 35 feet, will be used for minor sports such as tumbling, fencing, boxing, etc.

Dr. Rickert's plans include two classrooms and two large conference rooms which could be converted to classrooms for various purposes.

A swimming pool, 35 feet by 75 feet, will also be installed. There will be spaces for large locker rooms, storage rooms, visiting team room, training room and many others.

The Minnesota legislature has approved a sum of $1,260,000 for the construction of the athletic plant. However, up to now, $260,000 has been earmarked for grounds, parking, roads, sewers, grading, landscaping, etc.

The students of UMD, as represented by the Student council, have endorsed Dr. Rickert's plans and are hoping that these proposals will be accepted and incorporated into UMD's new athletic plant.

Ritchie also said that the "M" club would be unable to honor activities cards at the door because Donkey basketball is not financed by

Freshmen Athletes Get 1953 Numeral Sweaters

By Ken Olson

UMD's freshmen athletes will blossom forth with the "numeral look" this spring. For the first time in the school's history the athletic department has awarded golden numbers to members of frosh sports teams. The policy has long been in effect at the main campus as well as at other Big Ten schools but the Branch will be the first college to introduce the "numbered sweater" into the MIAC.

Along with the new numeral system, the department is looking forward to the expansion of freshmen intercollegiate competition. If contemplated plans are successful, the frosh grid squad of 1950 will meet a number of Range JC elevens and the Bemidji bombers, one of last year's opponents. A tentative schedule of five games is planned.

Frosh To Play JC's

On the basketball scene major changes are also in the offing. Already booked for hardwood competition are the Hibbing and Virginia JC quintets. It is expected that a full slate will greet next year's junior Bulldogs when the cage season opens.

To this reporter it seems apparent that the freshmen award policy and the future expansion program will deliver the shot in the arm needed to induce greater first year turnouts. The numerals definitely denote athletic achievement, and it is only right that our prospective varsity athletes receive some type of recognition for their initial efforts. The introduction of inter-school competition on a large scale should do much toward destroying the old, persisting impression that first year men are only "cannon fodder" for varsity squads.

Today our salute goes to the wearers of the "golden 53's", and at the same time it is only fitting that we pause to wish them future success in the field of varsity competition.

UPSET!

Ella Johnston's WAA intramural basketball team upset Barb Rotvig's squad, 32-19, Tuesday. This throws the league leadership into a tie between Rotvig's and Doris Peterson's teams with the Johnston six as runners-up.
